The reason why your group chose the topic:
I believe that our website "In Between Deadlines" showcases not only our own internal struggles with societal and academic standards placed upon us but also how others struggled as well. We focused on this niche topic because it was relatable, understandable, and an issue that should've been more talked about. After all, without awareness on how pressure takes a mental toll on us students, parents may tend to believe that their kid is lazy when it may not be the case. Our goal is to raise awareness on this matter to help not only ourselves but others as well.
